Teaching portfolio In the past 19 years, I had been fortunate to obtain a wide range of teaching experiences. As Postdoctoral Researcher at UiT The Arctic University of Norway, and professor II in Administrative Law at the University of Turin, I developed an online interactive course of Administrative Law in the framework of the Agenda 2030 (SDGs), a course on Public Law for Economics, a course for PhD Students on Writing and Communication Skills. Previously, I was appointed by Unito, Upo, WUR, and other European and international academic institutions, as an adjunct professor, senior lecturer, guest lecturer, tutor and trainer to trainers, as well as a course designer leader, to doctoral, postgraduate, undergraduate courses, and civil servants (Ethiopia, Rwanda, Sierra Leone, Sweden, Norway, NI, Canada). Teaching subjects: innovative approaches to administrative law, public law, EU law, contract law, tort law, labor law, environmental and food law, public procurement law, ethics and fraud, public law for economics; Scandinavian legal thinking and realism. Courses on methodology: indigenous methodology, communication skills for lawyers, critical legal thinking, academic writing for PhD students (Norway, Kenya, Canada). My teaching expertise covers the national, comparative and global perspectives.
